You could be a plant scientist and develop healthier soybean plants that produce more beans.
Welcome to Joe's Diner

Does it surprise you to know there are soybeans at a diner?
- The counter top is made of Environ, a marble-like material made with soybeans.
- The diner's menu also features foods containing soy protein, soy flour, and soy oil, which are good for you.
- The newspaper the man's reading and the diner's menu are printed with soy ink.
- There's even soy in the paint and plastic used throughout the diner.
You could be a grain trader and buy and sell soybeans. That's just one of the many jobs you can do in the soybean industry.
IT'S A Soy W*O*RLD

School Days

Soybeans are everywhere today, even in your classroom. Soy ink is used to print maps and textbooks, and you can color with soy crayons. Now here's a fun assignment: Next time you're in school, see what soy products you can find.
